PH: 3.40

Oak: 12 months new and two year old French Sirugue

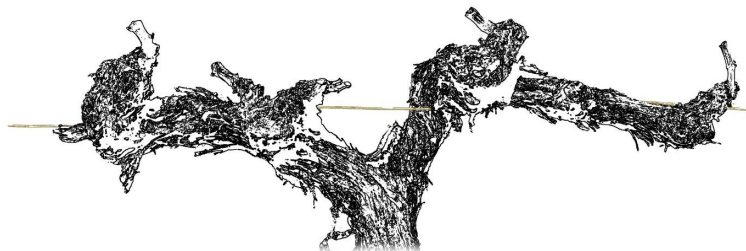

Bottled: December 2014

WINEMAKERS NOTES

The 2013 vintage was one of excellent quality in the Swan region. Cool lead up to summer with an even ripening period over the warmer months. Our Petit Verdot vines are dry grown and cropped at a moderate level of 2 ton to the acre. All fruit was hand-picked and fermented in open fermenter for 5 days on skins then pressed off and later transferred into oak for maturation.

TASTING NOTES

The wine shows lifted upfront ripe berry characters and a noticeable fresh violet note. Colour is typically deep purple almost black and is very bright and vibrant. Tannins in balance with the fruit and show a nice fine grainy character which combined with the tight natural acidity gives the wine great structure and a tight dry finish. An ideal match with a range of food types, but the richness and juiciness of this wine would be ideal with Mediterranean types of cuisine.
